

(Left) Sanghamitra Bose; (left above) Samar Jodha; (above) Roopali Singh, Rajini Balsubramaniam, Sidig Khan; (right) guest at the party

Cause for celebration

It was a royal evening for a cause when NGO Sshrishti organised a charity dinner for underprivileged children at Kamal Mahal, ITC Maurya, Sheraton Hotel. UAE Ambassador Mohamed Sultan Al Owais graced the evening along with dignitaries, diplomats and political officials.

Sanghamitra Bose, founder and CEO, Sshrishti played the perfect host and greeted her guests warmly. She also revealed how she started this NGO from her home while helping and teaching her maidservant's kids. "It feels great to cater to the needs of migrant labourers in the city."

The celebration was followed by an auction of photographs clicked by the NGO kids and guests enthusiastically participated to buy them.

Samar Jodha, who organised the workshop for these kids in Delhi, was happy to see the response. "Although I asked the kids to click random shots, as they were new to the camera, they ended up giving extraordinary angles to their pictures."

UAE Ambassador, who was overjoyed to be in India, said, "I loved everything about India, especially the Taj Mahal, classical music and Kathak dance. But Old Delhi's biryani is what I can't resist. I have travelled all over India and know the place better than Indians do."

(Right) Choreographer Liza Verma; (left) J. Donovan, Sandeep Gupta, C. Adamson; (below) Sanghamitra Bose founder of Sshrishti greeting ambassador of Egypt as UAE ambassador looks on

